Fr. Butler's Jubilee

The "Tidings," Los Angeles diocesan paper, gives the following account of Father George P. Butler's golden jubilee celebration at Blessed Sacrament church, June 22.

Rev. George P. Butler, one of the veterans of the Society of Jesus in California, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his religious profession in the society last Sunday, June 22, at the Blessed Sacrament parish church. The Right Rev. Bishop Cantwell, members of the diocesan clergy and his confreres, many of them former pupils, and a large congregation of people joined the venerable jubilarian in keeping his joyful anniversary.

At the solemn mass the Reverend Jubilarian occupied a place of honor in the center of the sanctuary. Bishop Cantwell assisted on the throne attended by Rev. Zacheus J. Maher, S. J., president of Loyola University, and Rev. Dominic Giacobbi, S. J., as deacons of honor. Father Maher preached the sermon in which he paid a splendid tribute to the high qualities of Father Butler. At the end of the mass Bishop Cantwell spoke briefly the felicitations of himself and the clergy of the diocese.

The solemn mass was sung by Rev. E. J. Whelan, S. J., president of St. Ignatius College, San Francisco. He was attended by Rev. Cornelius McCoy, S. J., president of Santa Clara University, deacon, and Rev. Harry Starke, C. S. P., pastor of the parish of St. Paul the Apostle, Westwood, subdeacon; Right Rev. Monsignor John Cawley, P. A. V. G., was archpriest attending the Right Rev. Bishop. Rev. Joseph McGucken, D. D., was master of ceremonies to the Bishop.

Among the clergy present were: Very Rev. Monsignor F. J. Conaty, Rev. W. T. Lewis, O. P., Very Rev. B. J. Dolan, Rev. J. De Vos, Rev. J. Zilla, Rev. James Martin, Rev. John Moclair, Rev. T. K. Gorman and the following members of the Society of Jesus: Fathers Gleeson, Hayes, Coglan, Acquistapace, Magner, Madigan, Joye, Foote, Duffy, Regan, Blackmore, Stack, Shepherd, Donahue and Flynn, and Brothers Brancoli, Goslin and Laird.

Many of the religious orders of Sisters were represented.

Los Altos

Summer Retreatants

Five hundred men devoted three days of their summer vacation to a retreat at El Retiro. The largest group was made up of 45 men. They all insisted on making the retreat, even though El Retiro was built to accommodate only 30. "We simply will not go home," they said, "we will sleep on the ground; we are going to stay."

Some doubled up over the garage; a stout retreat master gave up his quarters and lodged with a farmer in the village; the log cabin squeezed in three more.

Fresno Priests' Retreat

For the second time the priests of the Monterey-Fresno diocese came to El Retiro in two groups during July. At the Holy Hour they all assisted in white surplices; the altar was glorious with El Retiro's choicest blooms.

Novarro at El Retiro

The idol of the motion picture world motored quietly into El Retiro during the summer. Unostentatiously he entered his name—Ramon Novarro—in the register. For three days he cut himself away completely from his thousands of admirers to bury himself in the silence of retreat.

Ramon played and sang the Benediction as only a consummate artist can. He mingled with the retreatants with that sweetness and humility that makes him loved of men.

Recruiting Retreatants

Blind, witty, eloquent Jim McCormick by his own industry gathered a full class of thirty retreatants for El Retiro during the summer. Captain Charley Bock of the Oakland Police Department, recently baptized, is coming to El Retiro October 23 leading a full class of retreatants.

Non-Catholic Retreatants

El Retiro averaged one non-Catholic at every summer retreat. One, a prominent Methodist minister, wept as the principles of man's destiny and the life of Christ were unfolded in the chapel. Another, prominent in civic life, begged for baptism.

Hughey Gallagher

Juvenile screen star Hughey Gallagher donated to El Retiro the beautiful statue of St. Joseph that now stands in the patio. The statue was blessed last June with impressive ceremonies. The children of Hughey's party led the procession, followed by a group of his friends and the Jesuit community.

The crowded condition of the novitiate wing has necessitated the addition of seven new alcoves on the west side of the top floor. The novice coadjutors have been transferred to the juniorate wing, thus affording 14 more alcoves in the novitiate. The novitiate wing can now accommodate 104, and there were 98 novices at the end of August.

New Faculty Members

Fr. Joseph Perron is spiritual father at Los Gatos; Frs. Charles Walsh and Raymond Butler are teaching in the juniorate.

Phoenix

Enrollment

Brophy college resumed classes September 10, with an enrollment of 125 students, 35 of whom are boarders. More students are coming in daily. There are 27 in the two college classes. Last year's total registration was 102.

Fr. Malone's Recovery

Fr. James Malone, Brophy rector, who underwent a gall bladder operation last December, was ordered to the Coast by the doctor last May to remain there until September. During his absence Fr. Howard was acting superior. Fr. Malone is now literally rejuvenated and is putting on weight daily. Since his return to Phoenix he has resumed active work for the first time since his operation. Besides his official duties as rector, he teaches three hours daily.

The Brophy staff is as follows: rector and prefect of studies, Fr. James Malone; minister, Fr. Joseph Howard; prefect of discipline, Fr. E. Dale Maginnis; pastor of the church and students' chaplain, Fr. William Boland; assistant pastor, Fr. Robert S. Burns; radio lecturer and director of the Catholic open forum, Fr. Joseph Vaughan.

Capella Choristers

The beautiful Brophy patio with its arches and colonnades was converted into an outdoor theater for the first annual concert given by the Capella Choristers Thursday evening, May 15.

Fr. George Fox organized the Capella Choristers to render the Holy Week music in our Phoenix church; he gathered the best amateur talent in the city. Their rendition of Dubois' "Seven Last Words" both in the church during the Three Hours and later on the radio Good Friday night, was so excellent that there was a public demand for more. This choral society will also sing at the high mass in our church every Sunday during the coming year.

Colorful Commencement

In the semi-twilight of sub-tropical Phoenix beautiful colored flood lights set out the arches and colonnades of the Brophy college patio in rich blues and greens and yellows at the commencement exercises held at the end of the last semester. Sixteen students graduated from the high school.

Joseph Scott of Los Angeles gave a stirring address. As Fr. Malone was absent on the Coast, Fr. Howard spoke in his place. Fr. Strehl, prefect of studies, conferred the diplomas.

Open Forum In Phoenix

The Catholic Open Forum, started last year by Fr. Vaughan on the inspiration of Fr. William Lonergan, succeeded beyond all expectations. Eight meetings were held with from 400 to 500 people present each evening. About 40 per cent of those present were non-Catholics.

Jesuit and Franciscan Fathers alternated as speakers. The speaker held the platform for an hour, discussing some doctrine of the Church. A ten minute intermission was given for the preparation of written questions, which were then answered by the speaker. The meetings were entirely informal, and smoking was allowed.

Non-Catholics are deeply interested in this institution, and some excellent converts were the fruit of last year's effort; one of them was a doctor of philosophy from the university of Chicago. He declared he could not get away from the logical reasoning.

Open Forum in Tucson

The Forum will be conducted again during November and December this year. Bishop Gercke of Tucson was so pleased at the success of last year's Forum in Phoenix that he has asked Fr. Vaughan to come to Tucson, the episcopal see, to start an Open Forum there. Fr. William Boland and others from Brophy college will be called upon to assist with the lectures both in Phoenix and in Tucson. The bishop has been especially pleased at the harmonious cooperation of the Franciscans and Jesuits in this work.

At the end of May Fr. Vaughan discontinued his radio lectures until September.

Phoenix Converts

Twenty-nine converts have been baptized by our Fathers during our two years in Phoenix. More than 10,000 visits to the sick, chiefly the tubercular, have been made; in this work Frs. Burns, Howard and Vaughan have been extremely zealous and self-sacrificing. Classes over, they take one or other of the college flivvers and start around to the 12 sanitariums or the innumerable desert cabins within the parish limits.

Canvassing Students

The increased enrollment at Broph college is attributable in great part to the canvassing done during the summer. Fr. George Fox travelled extensively through northern Arizona, New Mexico and Texas in quest of prospective students. He gave 50 lectures and travelogues, and widely advertised Brophy. Fr. Vaughan was also on the road for a short time.

Fr. Fox also picked up three candidates for the Society. One of them, a doctor of philosophy and a convert of a year, is now teaching at St. Ignatius in San Francisco. Another is now studying at Brophy. The third, an excellent auto mechanic, is beginning his coadjutor postulantship at Brophy.

Arizona Jesuit Alumni

About 120 have already joined the newly organized Jesuit Alumni association of the state of Arizona. Plans are being made to have them gather at a banquet at Brophy in October. Their friendship and advice should prove a great asset for Brophy.

Bishop Gercke is our most distinguished Jesuit alumnus in Arizona; he was a student at St. Joseph's college, Philadelphia. The oldest alumnus thus far discovered is James A. Davies of Globe,. Ariz., who graduated from Fordham in 1869.

Feeder For Santa Clara

Eight Brophy high school graduates registered this fall at Santa Clara university. When it is impossible to hold students at Brophy because the desired courses are not yet available, every effort is made to turn them to our own colleges on the Coast.

Fr. Wm. Boland

Fr. William Boland, pastor of our Phoenix church, conducted the Novena of Grace last spring with gratifying results. It was new in Phoenix but promising. Fr. Boland has been extremely active in church services, conducting novenas, lenten and May devotions, and fostering piety at every opportunity. He has continued the envelope system and has trebled the collections. He never mentions money from the altar except to thank the people.

Fr. Boland was invited recently to address the students of the nearby Tempe State Teachers' college on the occasion of their initial annual reunion. Several Protestant ministers received the same invitation. Dr. Swetman, the new president of the teachers' college, candidly acknowledged his conviction of the necessity of religion as a vital factor in life, and for this reason he gave the representatives of the various denominations an opportunity to address the students and to invite them to make further religious inquiry. Fr. Boland's speech was outstanding, and he publicly complimented Dr. Swetman on his convictions about the necessity of religion.

Speeches at Prescott

Frs. Boland and Vaughan addressed the newly organized Arizona Catholic Women's Council at its first meeting, held at Prescott, June 4. Fr. Boland gave an inspiring talk on the need of Catholic higher education.

In the absence of Bishop Gercke, who was just recovering from an attack of pneumonia that was almost mortal, Fr. Vaughan became the chief speaker and outlined a suggestive program of Catholic activities. The council voted that his suggestions be printed and distributed to all the members.

Mass of the Holy Ghost

Fr. Malone sang the mass of the Holy Ghost at Brophy on September 13. Fr. Vaughan preached the sermon. A large gathering of the relatives of the students was present.

Fr. John Geale

Fr. John Geale of the Maryland-New York province, who came to Phoenix two years ago suffering from asthma, was moved to a hospital in Santa Monica, Calif., in June and is now attached to Loyola university. Latest reports show a marked improvement in his health.

Mr. Flaherty's Ph. Dr.

Mr. Maurice Flaherty was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy August 28 at the university of Washington in Seattle.

On June 7 he took the preliminary examination covering the entire field of education. His examiners were Drs. Uhl, Powers, Draper and Bishop.

He took the final examination on the matter of his thesis on August 13. Drs. Uhl, Powers and Bishop examined him, and Drs. Webb and Dvorack attended as guests. Immediately after the examination he was informed of its successful outcome.

His thesis was: "An Historical Critique of Formalism." presenting the scholastic views of psychology in its relation to education and stressing the faculties and training; the numerous misinterpretations read into scholastic psychology by moderns were corrected. The underlying thought was that a failure to understand scholastic psychology accounts for much of the opposition and criticism against it.

Mr. Flaherty's major subject was Education, covering the special fields of history of education, psychology of education, educational philosophy and sociology, and secondary education.

His minor was Latin. He was given full credit for this without an examination.

He passed his examination in French in February 1928, and in German on May 6, 1930.

Diamond Jubilee

Under the direction of William H. McCarthy, Matthew I. Sullivan and James G. Smyth, plans for the coming celebration of the golden jubilee of St. Ignatius college, which will take place from October 12 to 19, have been almost completed.

On July 14 the citizens' committee of 400 appointed by Mayor Rolph sponsored a rally luncheon at the St. Francis hotel, which was attended by almost 100 persons of various groups and creeds. Mayor Rolph and members of the Board of Supervisors attended the rally in a body.

The supervisors had previously adopted a resolution unanimously indorsing the coming celebration, the first time in thirty years that the board of supervisors were recorded as a unit behind any event of like character.

Among the luncheon speakers were, Archbishop E. J. Hanna, Mayor James Rolph Jr., Supreme Court Justice John E. Richards, Leland W. Cutler, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Fr. Edward Whelan. Supervisor Andrew Gallagher acted as temporary chairman. The committee unanimously elected William H. McCarthy as permanent chairman and James G. Smyth secretary.

The jubilee will open with the inaugural mass of thanksgiving, to be celebrated on Sunday morning, October 12, at St. Ignatius church, and will close with solemn pontifical mass of the following Sunday morning at St. Ignatius stadium, where more than 30,000 are expected to attend.

Plans are being made by architect Edward Eames for the erection of the altar on the field and for the installation of a system of loud speakers. Some of the other notable features on the program of events are: a rally at St. Ignatius stadium, an alumni luncheon, a civic banquet for 1,500 persons at the Palace hotel, the conferring of honorary degrees at exercises in the Civic auditorium, a grand parade, and the Gonzaga-St. Ignatius football game prepared with special features.

Cardinal Hayes

His Eminence, Patrick Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York, will come to San Francisco to take part in the jubilee celebration. Mayor Rolph, Archbishop Hauna, and Fr. Edward Whelan jointly signed the invitation asking the noted Catholic prelate to be the honored guest of the city of San Francisco during the jubilee. The entire membership of the board of supervisors, headed by Mayor Rolph will officially welcome Cardinal Hayes upon his arrival. As the culmination of the jubilee week program Cardinal Hayes will preach the sermon at the pontifical mass in the St. Ignatius stadium, Sunday, October 19. Scores of other notable Americans have also accepted the invitation to be among the city's guests during the jubilee week.

Senator Phelan's Will

In the will of Senator Phelan, which was dated July 2, 1930, and filed for probate on August 15, St. Ignatius college was left $50,000, and Santa Clara received a like amount for scholarships. The Notre Dame convent at Belmont, and the Mother House Presentation convent received $20,000 each. In addition $50,000 was left to the Paulist Fathers of Old St. Mary's church in San Francisco, "to be distributed among the poor of St. Mary's parish where my mother and father were wed and I was born." Mission Dolores church received $20,000, likewise to be distributed amongst the poor of that parish.

The largest bequest in the will was $1,000,000 for the creation of the Phelan foundation providing medical attention and care for the sick and needy of San Francisco, which is to be administered by R. D. McElroy, Noel Sullivan, T. B. Boyle and O. K. Cushing. Villa Montalvo at Saratoga, according to the will, is to become a park open to the public under reasonable restrictions, and to be used for the development of art, literature, music and architecture, and administered by the San Francisco Art association. The other numerous bequests in the will are in favor of various charitable organizations, relatives, friends and employees.

Death of James D. Phelan

Fortified by the last sacraments of the church, James D. Phelan, distinguished alumnus of St. Ignatius college, and one of California's foremost citizens, died at his home at Montvalvo on August 7. Taken ill on May 5 and confined to a sickroom for three months, little hope was held for his recovery at any time during the long period of illness. The body lay in state at the Civic Center until Monday, August 11, and was thence brought to St. Ignatius church where a requiem mass was celebrated.

On his deathbed the senator had requested that his funeral services be at St. Ignatius church, with a low mass and without a sermon. The celebrant was Fr. Dominick Giacobbi, who was to survive the senator only a few weeks.

Never before had so great an assemblage gathered in St. Ignatius church to assist at a funeral. Governor Young of California was present, and Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, and Senator Shortridge, and a large number of city and state dignitaries. There were about a hundred honorary pall-bearers in full dress, and a large group of St. Ignatius alumni. There were also two large groups of the San Francisco police and fire departments.

James Duval Phelan was born in San Francisco on April 20, 1861. He graduated from St. Ignatius college in 1881 and then studied law at the university of California. His subsequent career as lawyer, statesman and banker, brought him high civic honors, and even national fame. Elected mayor of San Francisco in 1897, he served three terms until 1902. In 1903 Santa Clara university conferred upon him the degree of doctor of philosophy. After the earthquake and fire of 1906 he was appointed to take charge of the relief work. Shortly after this he erected the Phelan building on Market Street as a memorial to his father. In 1915 he was elected United States senator and served in this capacity until 1921. While in the Senate, his policy of Oriental exclusion and his fiery speeches on behalf of it brought him into national prominence. After the expiration of his Senate term President Wilson offered him an ambassadorship, which he declined. The last years of his life were divided between foreign travel and retirement at his country home at Montalvo. Three years ago Senator Phelan donated $100,000 towards the erection of the new St. Ignatius high school.

Sodality Convention

Fr. McFadden, spiritual prefect in the high school, escorted the San Francisco delegates to the Students' Spiritual Leadership convention, which was held in Chicago under the auspices of the Sodality of Our Lady from June 20 to June 22. All activities of the convention, including mass were held in the "Palmer House." A total student registration of 2,063 was represented. St. Ignatius college with two delegates was the only college for men on the coast that was represented at the convention.

Freshman English Examination

Hereafter all freshmen entering St. Ignatius college will be obliged to take an English examination before being allowed to enter upon the regular English courses. Failure will mean a compulsory course in the elements of English composition and rhetoric. Such a test is common at other universities, and has been in practice for some time at Stanford and the University of California.

American Martyrs Triduum

A solemn triduum in honor of the North American martyrs was conducted by Fr. D. J. Kavanagh on September 17, 18, and 19. On Sunday, September 21, at a solemn high mass, which marked the close of the triduum, Fr. Kavanagh delivered a panegyric on the saints and martyrs.

Fr. Butler's Jubilee

Fr. George Butler celebrated his golden jubilee in the Society at St. Ignatius church, on September 14. Fr. Butler was connected with the church and college in San Francisco for nearly twenty years preceding the earthquake and fire of 1906. He was the first chaplain of Ignatius Council of the Young Men's Institute.

Freshman and sophomore classes were reopened at Santa Clara August 19; junior and senior, August 25.

The registration, as announced September 11, is the largest in the history of Santa Clara: 172 freshmen, 124 sophomores, 113 juniors and 105 seniors. The total is 532, twice the number in attendance five years ago.

$50,000 Legacy

A $50,000 legacy for scholarships was left to Santa Clara university in the will of Senator James D. Phelan, who died at Saratoga, Calif., August 7. (See further details under "San Francisco" in this issue.)

Fr. C. J. McCoy, Santa Clara rector, published the following tribute to the senator in the "Santa Clara" of August 28:

"The University of Santa Clara and we who knew James D. Phelan, will miss him very much. He was very generous with us. At the time of the reconstruction of the Mission, James D. Phelan was one of the most generous and one of the first to make a gift for the restoration and that without being asked. He was generous with us when the university started its rebuilding program and voluntarily telegraphed a large sum of money from France, where he was at the time, to assist in the work. We are proud of the fact that at one time we conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy because of his outstanding ability and because he was such a patron of the arts. We sincerely regret his passing, which we have realized from reports was inevitable. We feel keenly his loss because of our close association and his great kindness."

Senator Phelan Mass

The "month's mind" mass for the late Senator James D. Phelan, celebrated in the Santa Clara Carmelite monastery September 11, was attended by Archbishop Hanna, the entire Phelan family, a crowd of friends and admirers and the Jesuit Fathers Cornelius McCoy, Henry Woods, Joseph Sullivan and Bernard Hubbard.

The archbishop spoke in high praise of the senator.

Richard Doyle, Senator Phelan's grand-nephew, and a sophomore arts student at Santa Clara, was with the Phelan family.

The organist of the San Francisco auditorium, Uda Waldrop, furnished beautiful music during the mass. Charles Bulloti, noted tenor, sang, and Rudy Seeger played the violin.

A requiem mass is celebrated at the Carmelite monastery on the eighth of each month for Senator Phelan's sister, Alice Phelan Sullivan, who donated the grounds and buildings and founded the Mt. Carmel monastery at Santa Clara. A lamp is kept constantly burning in the memorial chapel erected to her honor. The main altar is the gift of Senator Phelan.

NEW BUILDING

Nobili hall, the new four-story $250,000 dormitory building, the latest and largest Santa Clara unit, which dominates the center position in the campus, was sufficiently finished to accommodate more than 160 additional boarding students when classes were resumed in August.

Though the ground floor was not yet equipped and furnished, the other three floors were occupied by the lay professors and upper classmen.

In spite of the fact that of all the Santa Clara buildings Nobili hall stands farthest back from the main highway, it is easily visible, rising well above the restored Mission and forming a beautiful and substantial background to the campus group.

A huge open tower, supported by slender Roman arches, extends in dominant grandeur above the roof. This lone tower, together with the buttressed arcade extending on three sides of the building, suggestive of a mission cloister, and the sheer lines of simplicity of exterior adornment, gives the structure an appearance that is in striking conformity with the restored Mission in the foreground.

Throughout the new building heavy linoleum flooring has been laid over a cushion of resilent felt, thereby insuring silence in walking. Terrazza stairs and landings with iron banisters have been installed. The plaster is of glistening white texture, and washable.

The vice-president's office, the postoffice, the dining rooms and the kitchen are to be on the ground floor of Nobili hall. The dining room and the kitchen are in the same relative position as in the old building, the faculty and guest dining rooms occupying the southern end, the kitchen the central section, and the students' dining hall the northern end.

Central Bell System

A central bell system has been installed in the vice-president's office, which is located in the northern end of the building. Connected with the vice-president's office is also a postoffice, in which each student has a box equipped with a combination lock.

The kitchen, which is to have a tiled floor and tiled walls, will be equipped with the most modern apparatus.

Fr. Ricard Returns

Fr. Jerome Ricard returned to Santa Clara university September 3 from O'Connor sanitarium, San Jose, where he had been ill since last February.

"Sunspot" Discontinued

Owing to the illness of both Fr. Ricard and Fr. James Henry, the "Sunspot", monthly weather bulletin, has been temporarily discontinued for the first time in the 30 years since the "Padre of the Rains" began his monthly weather predictions.

Fr. Henry in Hospital

Fr. James Henry underwent an operation for adhesions during the summer at O'Connor sanitarium, San Jose. On September 3 he was transfered to St. Francis hospital, San Francisco, where he has been under the care of Dr. John Gallwey, eminent specialist. On September 11 it was reported that he was rapidly improving.

Glacier Priest

Fr. Bernard Hubbard, Santa Clara geologist, lectured in the Santa Clara auditorium September 15 with movies and slides of his latest explorations, the volcanic Mts. Aniakchak and Veniominof.

"We did not discover the Aniakchak crater," he said, "as it can be seen from the ocean, and the Russians have used it for years as a landmark; neither were we the first explorers to make the trip into the Aniakchak region, as the United States geological survey accomplished the feat in 1924; but we were the first to discover that Aniakchak is not an extinct crater, but an active volcano."

When the crater blew out it scattered 15 cubic miles of volcanic rock skyward. The crater proper encloses a small crater the size of Mt. Vesuvius; it is a crater within a crater.

It has been rumored by the Alaskan natives that Veniominof smoked, but the Sargent geological survey had recorded it as a glacier crater. Fr. Hubbard and his party proved the error of this record. After making the extremely difficult ascent of Veniominof, they stood on the rim and looked down on an active crater within a huge glacier crater.

Account in Saturday Post

In the Saturday Evening Post of August 23 Fr. Hubabrd's explorations of Mt. Katmai, the Valley of the Ten Thousand Smokes, and the vast Mendenhall glacier are described in a splendid article entitled, "Volcanoes Packed in Ice." The New York times and other leading newspapers of the United States have devoted full pages of print and numerous pages of rotogravure to accounts of his explorations. They have also appeared in many of the papers of Europe.

Santa Clara Band

The Santa Clara band, organized by Fr. Bacigalupi and directed by Professor Capelli, played excellently at the lecture given by Fr. Hubbard September 15. Fr. Bacigalupi has issued an invitation to all Santa Clara's actual and potential musicians to try out for the band; he plans to make it an organization of 50 pieces.

Glee Club

A glee club of 45 voices has been organized at Santa Clara under the direction of L. B. Cain, noted director of choral work in central California. The regular glee club rehearsals are held every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at 12:30 p. m. Also classes in ear training, sight reading and preparation of glee club music for all aspirants who have free periods and a voice for singing are held every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday morning at 8.20, 9:20 and 10:20.

Engineering Scholarships

Winners of the General Electric Company three-year scholarships, two Santa Clara engineering students, Graham McCormick and Jacob Eberhard, left for New York September 6 to continue their engineering studies at the General Electric plant in Schenectady.

Mass of the Holy Ghost

Fr. William Lonergan, associate editor of "America," preached the sermon at the mass of the Holy Ghost at Santa Clara August 27. Fr. Cornelius McCoy was celebrant; Fr. Hugh Donavon, deacon; Fr. Francis Sheerin, subdeacon; Mr. Julian Brolan, master of ceremonies. All members of the students' sanctuary society assisted.

Carl F. Fitzgerald, choir director at St. Joseph's church, San Jose, directed the singing.

Fr. Ivancovich

Fr. E. M. Ivancovich of St. Joseph's church, San Jose, conducted the Santa Clara students' three-day retreat, closing Sunday morning, September 7.

Alumnus Made Principal

Thomas P. Ryan, who received his bachelor of arts degree from Santa Clara in 1929, has been appointed principal of the Evergreen school near San Jose.

New Track Installed

A temporary quarter mile track was built during the summer on Mission Field at Santa Clara. It is 24 feet wide on the straight-away and 18 feet wide on the turns.

Three years ago after the brick foundation for the track had been laid, lack of money made it impossible to complete the track.

The opportunity of getting a sufficient amount of good dirt presented itself when the paving of the Santa Clara streets was begun. Accordingly the original brick base has been filled in, graded, banked and rolled.

Catala Club

The Catala club, an organization of the mothers and friends of Santa Clara students, gathered in the Santa Clara Mission August 12, the feast of St. Clare, for a solemn mass, sung by Fr. James J. Lyons, organizer of the club. Fr. Joseph Georgen was deacon, and Fr. Hugh Donavon, subdeacon. Fr. Francis Gliebe, Franciscan from Sacramento, preached a sermon on St. Clare.

After the mass a basket lunch was served in the inner garden of the university; then an inspection was made of the new building, dedicated to Fr. John Nobili, Santa Clara's first president.

The students' lounge room in the Seifert gymnasium was recently beautifully renovated and decorated by members of the Catala club.

The present enrollment in the high school is 300; in the college of arts and sciences, 325. There are 160 college freshmen. On September 26, as we go to press, 60 have just registered for the evening courses.

Fr. O'Shea

Fr. Godfrey O'Shea was sent as the representative of Rev. Fr. Provincial to the solemn celebration held at Auriesville, N. Y., at the end of August in honor of our newly canonized North American Jesuit martyrs. Before returning west he paid a short visit to his home at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., a few miles from Auriesville; it was the first time he had seen it in 20 years.

Fr. Vrebosch Ill

Fr. Henry Vrebosch went to Sacred Heart hospital September 22, where he will undergo a serious operation after a few weeks. He has been suffering severely for a long time, but has managed to do a great amount of work as director of the correspondence course, and as minister and teacher at Gonzaga.

Bro. Dougherty

Bro. Francis Dougherty, who was not expected to live, much less to walk again, after his terrible fall from a 20-foot ladder last February, when he shattered several bones, returned from Sacred Heart hospital to Gonzaga early in June. He is able to walk without difficulty or support; he helps about the house, is sacristan of the domestic chapel, excitator and visitor.

Fr. Daniel Meagher

Fr. Daniel Meagher's appointment as director of dramatics at Gonzaga was received with enthusiasm by the student body. Fr. Meagher directed the "G" club's first "Hammer and Tongs" revue last year, which proved a great success. He has gained a wide reputation in Spokane for his remarkably successful directing of the dramatic club of the sodalists of St. Patrick's parish, Hillyard.

"Cock Robin," by Elmer Rice and Philip Barry, will be the Gonzaga dramatic club's first presentation, some time in October. Three other plays will be produced during the season.

Improvements

Showers have been installed in the enclosure on the second and third floors.

Fr. Vrebosch had all the high school classrooms completely renovate and repainted early in the summer, so that now everything in them looks like new.

All the Gonzaga buildings were connected with the central steam heating plant during the summer.

Under Bro. Veraldi's care the Gonzaga gardens are beautiful and add much to the appearance of the school.

Moriarity-Padden

Charles P. Moriarity and Stanley Padden, noted Seattle attorneys and Gonzaga alumni, won the case for the defense in the recent spectacular Lyle-Whitney trial, famous throughout the Northwest.

Moriarity not long ago resigned his position as judge, to go into partnership with Padden.
